Product Detail Page Guide

Create Great Product Detail Pages

The way you present your products influences a customer's decision to buy your product on Amazon. This guide will teach you how to create clear and concise product detail pages with information laid out in a consistent format to attract customers to your product.

Product Detail Page Rules

Content-specific policies

- Do not include any seller specific information (such as price points, delivery speeds, or personal information)
- Do not include HTML, JavaScript, or other types of executables other than break () in your detail pages. You can use break to provide the necessary line breaks when providing the description.
- The inclusion of any of the following information in detail page titles, descriptions, bullet points, or images is prohibited:
 - o Pornographic, obscene, or offensive content.
 - o Phone numbers, physical mail addresses, email addresses, or website URLs.
 - o Availability, price, condition, alternative ordering information (such as links to other web sites for placing orders), or alternative delivery offers (such as free delivery).
 - o Reviews, quotes, or testimonials.
 - o Solicitations for positive customer reviews.
 - o Advertisements, promotional material, or watermarks on images, photos, or videos.
 - o Time-sensitive information such as dates of promotional tours, seminars, lectures, and so on.
- All products must be appropriately and accurately categorised. To learn more about the classifying your products correctly, see our help pages on Product Classifier and Browse Tree Guide.
- Product titles, product descriptions, and bullet points must be clearly written and assist the customer in understanding the product.
- All product images must meet Amazon general image standards as well as any applicable category-specific image guidelines. To learn more about Amazon's image standards, see Product image requirements.

Detail page creation policies

- Use of Add a Product, inventory files, and Amazon Marketplace Web Services (Amazon MWS) listing APIs for any purpose other than listing products on Amazon is prohibited.
- The use of false product identification information—including UPC codes or publication dates—in product detail pages is prohibited.
- The creation of product detail pages is limited to products that do not already exist within Amazon's catalogue. Creating a product detail page for a product already in the Amazon catalogue is prohibited.
- Using product detail pages to cross-merchandise or cross-promote a product is prohibited.
- For Books, Music, Videos, and DVDs (BMVD) a single detail page may not be used to advertise more than one product. BMVD-only product bundles must be defined by the publisher or manufacturer and have a single ISBN, UPC, or EAN that is different from the product identifier for any unique item in the bundle.
- Detail pages may not feature or contain Restricted Products.
- You should not update an existing listing for a new version of a product. This includes changes in colour, size, material, features, and product name. You should create a new product detail page for new versions of products. For example, a manufacturer updates its streaming media player by introducing a new remote control with four buttons instead of two buttons on the old remote. This is materially different from the previous version and must be listed as a new ASIN.

Title

- Titles should be concise. We recommend fewer than 80 characters.
- Don't use ALL CAPS.
- Capitalise the first letter of each word except for prepositions (in, on, over, with) , conjunctions (and, or, for) , or articles (the, a, an) .
- Use numerals: "2" instead of " two ".
- Don't use non-language ASCII characters such as Æ, ©, or ®.
- Titles should contain the minimal information needed to identify the item and nothing more.
- Don't use subjective commentary, such as " Hot Item " or " Best Seller ".
- Titles can include necessary punctuation such as hyphens (-), forward slashes (/), commas (,), ampersands (&), and periods (.) .
- Titles can abbreviate measurements, such as "cm", "oz", "in", and "kg" .
- Don't include your merchant name in titles.

Brand

Only available to brand-registered products

- A unique and identifiable, symbol, association, name or trademark which serves to differentiate competing products or services
- A name used to distinguish one product from its competitors that can apply to a single product, an entire product line, or a company
- A name or symbol used to identify a seller's goods or services, and to differentiate them from

Manufacturer

- A business engaged in manufacturing a product
- Anyone who manufactures a product

Example: Phillips

Note: Do not use your seller name as the Brand or Manufacturer, unless your product is Private Label.

Key Features (Bullet Points)

- Highlight the top five features that you want customers to consider. For example:
 - Dimensions
 - Age appropriateness
 - Country of origin
- Begin each bullet point with a capital letter
- Write in fragments and do not include ending punctuation
- Write all numbers as numerals
- Separate phrases in one bullet with semicolons
- Spell out measurements, such as litres and metres.
- Do not use hyphens, symbols, periods, or exclamation points
- Do not write vague statements; be as specific as possible with product features and attributes

Product Description

- Describe the major product features, such as size, style, and what the product can be used for
- Include accurate dimensions, care instructions, and warranty information
- Use correct grammar, punctuation, and complete sentences
- Do not include any of the following types of information:
 - Seller name
 - E-mail address
 - Website URL
 - Company-specific information
 - Details about another product that you sell

Images

- Product image requirements
- Images must accurately represent the product that is for sale.
- Images must match the product title.
- Product must fill at least 85% of the image.
- The optimal zoom experience for detail pages requires files to be 1600px or larger on the longest side. Zoom has been shown to help enhance sales. If you are unable to meet this requirement, the smallest your file can be for zoom is 1000px, and the smallest your file can be for the site is 500px.
- Images must not exceed 10,000px on the longest side.
- Images must be in JPEG (.jpg or .jpeg), TIFF (.tif), PNG(.png), or GIF (.gif) file formats. JPEG is preferred. Our servers do not support animated .gifs.
- Images must not be blurry, pixelated, or have jagged edges.
